'66 seniors attain

Like a wave building toward its crest, America topped the accomplishments of yesterday and achieved her goals through hard work, determination, and skills.

Nationally, the acme of space performances was attained by the Gemini 6 and 7 astronauts who orbited high above the earth and rendezvoused in space. 1966 marked the 150th anniversary of Statehood in Indiana. Gala festivities and parades were planned to commemorate the Sesquicentennial. Anderson, the "Redbud Capital of the World", hosted the Babe Ruth World Series. Madison Heights students built upon a ten-year heritage; new crests of achievements were earned in merit, honor, and scholarship.

Like the feeble efforts of a neophyte, tasks were attempted and experience gained through doing—accomplished with the perfection of an expert. In all things the beginning is of small consequence, like a ripple. With time and effort, size and importance grow. Then like a wave, achievements build to a high tide—and like the goals, the tide continues to build.

ACADEMICS

language arts strengthen underclassmen's fundamental english and ready seniors for college

Bill Hobbs explains techniques of guitar playing as a demonstration speech, and Bob Morris and Greg Logan accompany him.

Fluency in three foreign languages and in English could be obtained through courses offered to students in the English department. Two years of Spanish and three years of both French and Latin were offered to MHHS pupils. State requisites included four years of comprehensive English grammar and world literature.

In speech class seniors delved into the world of mass communication. Future orators expounded on topics ranging from the history of last names to the training of animals. Pantomimes and class skits furthered students' acting and lingual abilities.

Publishing Madison Height's bi-monthly newspaper, the Jolly Roger, gave journalism students the opportunity of reporting school news and expressing personal editorial opinion. Novice reports received training through class supervision and accumulated knowledge by writing for eighteen deadlines.

Spanish students learn new vocabulary words as Mr. LaWall explains an assignment.

Senior Jim Rebhorn consults Webster's Dictionary for spelling of a word to be used in a theme.

Struggling with the composition of a description theme, senior Curt Ruggles writes his ideas in his notebook.

Mrs. Coramae Simmons explains to her students how to write expository compositions.

Writing noun declensions and verb conjugations help Latin I students master the grammatical structure of the foreign language.

comparison of american heritage and world's history

World history students learn about early Greece as Mrs. Barbara Adams points out how Athens became a great democracy.

Through their social studies class, Madison Heights pupils were transported to every corner of the world.

Sophomore world history students followed the development of man from prehistoric times, through the age of discovery, and on to the modern era. Subject reports required each six weeks enabled students to delve more deeply into the causes and the results of historical events.

Relating world happenings and their significance to incidents in American history provided a better understanding of today's society for United States history pupils. Juniors studied the development of America from colonial times to present day.

Studying different aspects of marriage, farming, social security, city slums, and insurance helps sociology pupils to become more acquainted with America's modern-day civilization. Semester economics and psychology courses provided students with varied study. Economics classes explored the complex world of the stock market, as well as learning the principles of supply and demand.

"Who was the first Secretary of State?" is the question Mr. Bob Smith directs to one of his U.S. History students.

Seniors in government class listen as Mr. George Hunt explains the process by which an alien gains citizenship in this country.

of conflict intensifies patriotism in future citizens

Explaining the economic structure of American business, Mr. Richard Worley engrosses students with the law of supply and demand.

Pondering the importance of the provisions in the Bill of Rights, junior Dave Hubble listens to an explanation of civil liberties.

U.S. history students concentrate on Mr. William Jennings' lecture on the Revolutionary War.

Marcia Jemison points out the angles of a triangle with the help of teacher, Mr. Roy Blount.

A general math student solves a problem as the class looks on.

Mr. Maurice Wann explains algebraic functions to the class.

The Delta Epsilon Theorem and derivatives intrigue calculus students.

Mr. Robertson demonstrates the technique of solving a first degree algebra problem.

algebraic equations, conic sections, logarithm charts, and slide rules create new problems for mathematicians

Modern mathematics courses offered to Madison Heights students provided the opportunity to reason and to think independently. Courses in general mathematics helped prepare students for the business world. Beginning algebra, plane geometry, advanced algebra, trigonometry, college algebra, and calculus laid the foundations for college and careers requiring a knowledge of higher mathematics.

Madison Heights was one of the first schools in the country to have a five-year program of mathematics in which the fifth year is taught at a college level. In order to be selected for the five-year program, students must have received the recommendation of their beginning algebra teachers and the approval of the department chairman. Former students of the five-year program have earned advanced placements at Yale University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Indiana University, and Ball State University.

New textbooks, written by the authors of the School Mathematics Study Group Program, were adopted this year to replace the SMSG materials used in previous years.

Explaining the technicalities of a slide rule, Mr. Faust demonstrates the proper method of finding square roots to Dan Waltz.

Chemistry students are usually puzzled by complex theories. Mr. Robert Slone demonstrates while he explains atomic structure.

One of the many experiments performed in chemistry is demonstrated here as Connie Sisson and Sally Sloan titrate a base with an acid.

novice scientists delve into chemistry laboratories,

physics experiments,

and biology dissections

With the increasing roll science is playing in life today, the freshman, junior, and senior college preparatory students studied the technical and physical worlds of biology, chemistry and physics.

Five hundred and two students studied living creatures ranging from the simple amoeba to the complex human body in freshman biology courses. Collecting insects and leaves for class assignments busied the young biologists during the fall and spring months.

Memorizing a countless number of formulas and performing laboratory experiments engrossed the imaginations of junior and senior chemistry students. Vexing terms, such as octane rating scales, phenol coefficients, and destructive distillation, introduced pupils to the complexities of the earth.

The secrets of matter and energy were unfolded as seniors investigated the theories of great scientists such as Newton, Galileo, and Einstein. The intricacies of various transformations of energy became clear as the year progressed.

Freshman biology students, Debbie Morris and Chris McLain, learn the correct way to handle a snake from lab assistant, Jerry Perkins.

fine arts develop young talent and instill

Band director, Mr. Francis Barker, explains cadence on the piano keyboard to senior Mike Smith in music theory class.

Enlarged and advanced facilities in the fine arts department of Madison Heights offered students opportunities to further their learning in music and arts. Instructing music majors and art students, Mr. Francis Barker, Mr. Andrew Brown, and Mr. John Riley taught background material and encouraged development of personal style among the pupils.

In music theory, music majors studied the piano keyboard for a better understanding of the formation of chords and of music. Students tried composing music and conducting, once the basics of the instruments were learned.

History of music, instruments, and composition style were studied in music appreciation class. The small class, composed of fourteen pupils, delved into the world of music by learning to recognize the style of composers, and by distinguishing differences in symphonic and choral music.

Three years of comprehensive art offered at MH provided background knowledge for young artists. In the first year course, students worked with pastels and charcoals and learned the basic principles of art. Work with water colors, oil paints, wood, metal, stone, and ceramics completed areas covered in the second year course. During the third year, students are encouraged to find and develop personal styles of artistry.

musical appreciation and artistic creativity

Under the guidance of director Mr. Andrew Brown, music appreciation students concentrate on the classical qualities of a Johann Brahams record album.

Exploring the world of modern art, Greg Logan and Shiryl Ray attempt interpretation and expression of their ideas.

Poised and ready to begin a timed writing, Margaret Hadley listens as Mrs. Raines gives directions.

Planning a sales talk is not all work for Barbara Hickner and Candy Horoho.

business ed courses prepare students for challenges of a competitive commercial world

Mr. Ron Beard explains the importance of accuracy in filling out tax forms to Jean Watson.

Over eight hundred Madison Heights students enrolled in business education courses this year. Business arithmetic, general business, typing, bookkeeping, business law, and sales and retailing classes met the requirements for graduation from high school on the commercial course.

Departmental members strove to give the student basic business education and to offer specialized work to those who possessed the aptitude and drive for more difficult work. Interest rates, loan and mortgage terms, and tax forms became well-known to future business men and women of the competitive industrial world.

Advanced seniors in the department are chosen by the department staff to assist in the school office with records, filing, and typing. Some advanced typists served as faculty secretaries. This type of training prepares the students for their future in the business world.

Students hurriedly review for a test in business mathematics.

Organizing lesson plans for the presentation of daily material in business law, Mr. Joe Mitchell checks his calendar.

building trades class constructs barn; home

Janie Leader demonstrates the correct way of hemming a dress while Patti Jemison looks on.

Carefully, Pam Branch and Elaine Whitesel put their homemade pie into the oven.

Careful consideration is taken by Paula Whitehurst and Donna McMahan in laying out a dress pattern, while Jean Taylor presses her finished product.

ec course modernized

Sounds of buzzing saws, sizzling food, and pounding hammers served as a reminder to the student body that the home economics and industrial arts departments were hard at work.

The conventional home economics class was modernized with new trends in food preparation and sewing by Mrs. Jane Gwinn, Mrs. Winifred Bryant, and Mrs. Patsy Worrell. The eleven complete kitchens and twenty-seven sewing machines were used by students in courses adapted to the pre-cooked foods and ready-made clothes of modern society. The advanced cooking class specialized in fancy and foreign foods. As well as serving all faculty and senior teas, future homemakers catered for area clubs and organizations. High values and goals for adulthood were instilled in students in the family living class.

The construction of a gable-roofed barn by Mr. Morris Smith's building trades class marked the largest structure the daily three-hour class has completed. Drafting, machine shop, auto mechanics, and building trades fill the five work areas of the Industrial Trades Department.

Machine shop student Larry Reddin works skillfully on a drill press.

Mike Douglas extricates a ball joint from a 1957 Cadillac.

defensive driving stressed to 312 new drivers

Mr. Bruin shows students that it takes more than a key and a gas pedal to make a car run.

An interested class looks on as Mr. Howell explains different kinds of fractures.

Due to combined efforts of drivers' education, safety, and health instructors, MHHS students strove to perfect skills in handling an automobile, administering proper first-aid, and studying human body parts and functions.

Three hundred and twelve students climbed behind the wheel of a new drivers' education car during the 1965-66 school year. Close at hand, the instructor stressed courteous, safe, and defensive driving.

In the classroom, or in the drivers' education car, students practiced and learned the basic techniques and skills of driving.

In addition to safe driving, students concentrated on bandage wrapping, artificial respiration, and human anatomy. Health enabled the student to understand human anatomy and body functions. In safety, pupils were taught care of an accident victim.

In safety class, Bucky Sheets and Butch Heath demonstrate the art of artificial respiration.

fitness grows as frosh learn international sports

This year's physical education department combined improvement and fun to further fitness and health. Learning various games and sports, being tested for physical dexterity, and taking field trips rounded out the year's activities for the freshman boys and girls.

The freshman girls learned how to bowl, ice skate, play golf, and even master billiards. Understanding sports through classroom studies enabled the girls to enjoy watching games from the sidelines.

Flag football, basketball, and calisthenics accounted for a part of the freshman boys' program. The boys had experience in weight lifting and with gymnastic equipment. Running track events, taking physical fitness tests, and playing baseball, soccer, and volleyball completed the year's agenda.

During a summer work-out session, Bill Carter lifts weights to increase muscle tone.

ORGANIZATIONS

student council innovates

By working diligently, the 1965-66 MHHS Student Council proved to be an active and efficient student governing body. Under the watchful eye of Peter Drumm, Student Council president, the student representatives successfully carried out several original, interesting programs for the betterment of the school. Working in close contact with the entire student organization, the various Student Council committees planned the details of these projects.

Under the leadership of the Student Council, the 1965 Homecoming was one of the most colorful in the school's history. After the game, the council sponsored a soc-hop honoring the Homecoming Queen and her court. In addition to its normal responsibilities, this year's Student Council saw fit to initiate such new programs as the Student of the Month Award and, at Christmas time, the Penny Postage mail system to raise money for the needy people in Anderson. Also at Christmas time, the governing group decorated the school to reflect the true spirit of Christ's birth. The week before the basketball sectional, the Student Council sponsored Scarlet and Black Week to help arouse the enthusiasm of all MHHS students.

The Student Council gives everyone an opportunity to participate in the democratic form of government that is so important to the well-being of all future generations.

Contemplating an important decision, Student Council President Pete Drumm presides over a noon-hour meeting of the representatives.

Penny Postage committee members Ken Bowman, Patty Pyzik, Jim Rebhorn, and Greg Logan sort Christmas mail for distribution in homerooms.

Linda Jemison and Steve Cronk assemble the fireplace which will stand by the old-fashioned tree in the main lobby's Christmas scene.

penny postage, student of the month awards

At a bi-monthly meeting, Ken Bowman, Student Council treasurer, reports the organization's financial standing to the representatives.

Student Council officers, Steve Cronk, Pete Drumm, and Anne Whipple, discuss events in the offing with sponsor William A. Jennings.

*Student Council—Bottom Row—Mr. William Jennings, sponsor; Steve Cronk, vice-president; Anne Whipple, secretary; Ken Bowman, treasurer; Pete Drumm, president. Becoming a member of the National Honor Society is a goal set by many students at Madison Heights. Honor Society encourages the qualities of scholarship, leadership, service, and integrity in each of its eighty-two members. The members are required to have a B+ average and must maintain this throughout high school. Gold tassels are worn by members of the organization at graduation to distinguish them from other students.

Honor Society initiated forty-one juniors and two seniors this year in a solemn candlelighting ceremony. Dr. Gene Newberry, Dean of Theology at Anderson College, spoke to the initiates. The officers, Kevin Crim, president; Cindy Nottingham, vice-president; Susie Pierce, secretary; and David Pershing, treasurer, participated in the initiation by presenting the aims of Honor Society to the new members.

The members, the officers, and Mr. Robert Uplinger, sponsor, participated in many activities and helped Honor Society play an important role in Madison Heights school life. At the annual Honor Society soc-hop, funds were raised for the purpose of awarding a scholarship to a graduating Madison Heights student.

Dr. Gene Newberry, Dean of Theology at Anderson College, addresses Honor Society initiates stressing the importance of setting future goals.

Revising plans for the Honor Society St. Louis field trip, president Kevin Crim and sponsor Mr. Robert Uplinger examine the tentative schedule.

quill and scroll recognizes top teenage journalists

Secretary-treasurer of Quill and Scroll, senior Anne Whipple, presents an initiate, junior Ruth Hitchcock, JR staffer, with her membership card.

Honoring the top-rated members of publication staffs of the school, the Madison Heights Chapter of Quill and Scroll added names to its roster in the spring initiation ceremony. To be eligible for membership in Quill and Scroll, a student must have worked on a publication staff for one year and must rank scholastically in the upper one-third of his class.

Sponsors Ann Jenkins and Ruby Jones kept the enthusiasm for writing alive in some twenty members by helping future journalists to create distinctiveness and to display talent in the field. Lectures given by professional journalists, examination of style, literary forms, and current trends in writing furthered the practical knowledge of the aspiring journalists.

Perusing an issue of Quill and Scroll affords annual staffer Linda Jemison and Jolly Roger reporter Karla Wilkinson a chance to share common interests.

debate club expands into new areas of forensics

The Madison Heights Debate Club, in its second year of organization, explored many new and interesting areas of forensics. In addition to the debate of the regular national topic, compulsory arbitration in labor disputes, the club turned its attention to discussion and extemporaneous speaking. Club members Kevin Crim and Lynn Hecht represent the school at the Ball State Assembly, a discussion on "The Congress and America's Future". The school also sent, for the first time, eight club members to the Indiana High School Debaters' Conference at Purdue University. At the two-day meeting, David Jarret competed in the Extemporaneous Speaking division, and Student Council President Pete Drumm was cited as an outstanding committee speaker.

The Debate Club stimulated student interest in debate by means of demonstration debates, in the hope of further increasing its membership.

During a demonstration debate for junior high students, Kevin Crim explains the pros and cons of labor management movements.

stage-struck thespians mime heroes, villains

During a solemn candlelight ceremony, Thespian initiates take the oath of membership.

"All the world's a stage," especially to the members of the MH Thespian club, whose main objective is learning and practicing the art of creative expression through acting.

Accumulating ten points, earned through participation on committees and in plays, enables beginning members, Footliters, to be initiated into the Thespian club. Each job is assigned a certain number of points. There are two initiations yearly. An informal service is held in January for the incoming seniors, and a formal ceremony with a dinner is given for the others in the spring. Nearly 20 new members were added to the group this year.

Presiding over the 30 Thespians was senior Steve Cronk. He was assisted at the monthly meetings by club sponsor, Mr. William Jennings; Charlie Newman, vice-president; Armella Crouse, secretary; and Marcia Green, treasurer.

Enacting a play or skit is a yearly Thespian tradition, as is building a Homecoming float, and adding to the celebration of Red and Black Week.

plays, pantomimes

Capturing a place in the limelight, members of the newly organized Footliters theatrical club joined with Thespians to produce and present plays and programs throughout the year.

Jim Rebhorn, president; Nancy Hollar, vice-president; Tommie Delaplane, secretary-treasurer; and Mr. William Jennings, sponsor, helped to make Footliters a successful organization. training each member individually in the many concepts of stage plays, skits, and readings.

Acquiring points, which eventually enable Footliters to become Thespians, was the main objective of club members. Learning and practicing the techniques of setting and scenery design, effective lighting, and application of make-up were also important club projects. Footliters participated in all Thespian plays either as cast or stage-crew members.

Footliter's sponsor, Mr. William Jennings, gives a nod of approval to Lindie Fisher's choice of costume for a portrayal in a play.

Footliters meet with Thespians to discuss the initiation procedure.

teachers-to-be gain insight by observing classes

Displaying musical talents, Cheryl Gates, Melody Venis, Vicky Walsh, and Priscilla Vaughn participate in Future Teachers initiation.

Nearly forty students, aspiring to pursue the teaching profession, explored new techniques of instruction through the Madison Heights Chapter of Future Teachers. After a rigorous initiation, new members enjoyed an installation tea in the home economics room. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Winifred Bryant, pupils met twice monthly to learn of the teaching profession.

Touring Anderson Elementary schools and observing classroom procedures and techniques first-hand gave the members an idea of the difficulties and rewards experienced by teachers. Lectures given by guest instructors enlightened the students as to special procedures employed in teaching the handicapped.

Officers, Patty Jones, secretary; Ann Shafer, vice-president; Mary Ann Shelburn, historian; Becky Stanley, parliamentarian; Dave Cooper, president; and Jim Hutton, treasurer, planned the activities of the club and conducted the meetings. Mrs. Winifred Bryant, sponsor, often addressed the members and related personal experiences of teaching home economics. Symbolic silver pins represented membership of Future Teachers.

*Future Teachers—Bottom Row—Patty Jones, secretary; Ann Shafer, vice-president; Mary Ann Shelburn, historian; Becky Stanley, parliamentarian; Dave Cooper, president; Jim Hutton, treasurer; Mrs. Winifred Bryant, sponsor. # caduceus stresses healing arts and sciences

Preparing students for college and a medical career, the Caduceus Medical Association meets bi-monthly to hear local medical men explain their professions. Selected from every branch of medicine, the guest speakers give Caduceus members an insight into medical training and career opportunities.

Officiating at meetings and planning activities and programs for the 130 Caduceus members consumes much of club-president Phil Faris's time. Sharing in these and the other functional responsibilities of the organization are Dick Larmore, first vice-president; Jim Rebhorn, second vice-president; Janet Miller, secretary; Jean Doenges, treasurer; Bob Morris, sergeant-at-arms; and Steve Cronk, chaplain.

Besides its interest in current medical events, Caduceus participates in several school activities. Using the theme "I Spy A Victory," Caduceus members entered a float in the Homecoming parade. During Red and Black Week, Caduceus displayed a pep stand.

Initiation ceremonies, held during the second six-weeks period, increased the Caduceus membership by seventy.

An annual field trip is planned each year to further the medical knowledge of Caduceus members. Visiting museums and hospitals helped students gain a broader perspective of the medical world.

Dr. Paul E. Jarrett, local obstetrician, speaks to Caduceus Medical Association stressing the importance of high school preparation before a career in medicine.

Sporting one of the largest memberships of any club at Madison Heights, the ninety-five members of the American Field Service strived to promote international understanding among the young people of the world. Under the guidance of Mr. Paul Redding, sponsor, and Mr. William Frame, financial advisor, AFS'ers worked to finance the trip of a foreign student to live in Anderson and attend Madison Heights as a senior. Their efforts were rewarded when seinor Kirsten Neilsen of Denmark arrived in Indiana on September 4th to live with the Harry Hudsons of 1541 Weslow Court.

AFS sponsored the bus stop in Anderson in the summer, entertaining traveling foreign students for two days. During the pre-Christmas season, club members sold colorful Christmas cards to supplement the club's treasury.

Officers Charles Newman, president; David Jackson, vice-president; Lynn Hecht, secretary; and Susie Pierce, treasurer, conducted bi-monthly business meetings. Goals for next year include: two foreign exchange students for Madison Heights and a student abroad from MH

touch of danish culture enlivens mh atmosphere

New customs, mannerisms, and a new life awaited Miss Kirsten Nielson of Odense, Denmark, as she traveled for four days from her Danish home to Anderson, Indiana, in the United States of America.

Changes in climate, habitat, and cuisine were a part of Kirsten's new life. She "inherited" one American brother and one sister. Her new parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hudson, helped to introduce Kirsten to the typical American family life.

She attended First Methodist Church with the Hudsons, and was a member of Concert Choir, the American Field Service Association, Student Council, and Church Choir. Eighteen year old Kirsten was born in Middelfart, Denmark, a small town near Copenhagen, the capital city. She has one brother, Stig, and one sister, Lisbeth. Her mother is a housewife and her father works as a policeman. She attends the Gymnasium in Odense, Denmark, and will graduate next year.

in bi-monthly publication

Completing the tenth year of the publication of Madison Heights' bi-monthly newspaper, the Jolly Roger, 45 journalists strove for variety, accuracy, and perfection in reporting twenty issues of the paper that were distributed to students. Special issues including Homecoming, Thanksgiving, Christmas, sectional Valentine, Easter, Prom, and Senior Week issues, kept pupils abreast of the events occurring in school.

Sponsoring the newspaper for the eighth year, Mrs. Ruby A. Jones, English teacher, also trained 27 novice reporters in her third period journalism class. Aided by the class's reporting, a staff of eighteen, headed by Karen Brown, editor, drafted the final outline of each issue before printing.

Journalists received on-the-spot-training from the beginning of the year. Each developed his "nose for news" as the year passed, and the content and quality of the publicator showed progressive improvement.

Feature stories, news stories, editorials, sports copy, and many pictures summarized activities of MH students in each publication.

tradition and new techniques mingle

Selling 1965 Treasure Chests at the fall open house, Tim Forbes writes a receipt for a yearbook purchased by Russ Gilliom.

Publication and distribution dates, copy assignments, photographic duties, organization details, and financial balances continually harassed twenty-four MH students throughout the year. With five major deadlines to meet, individual staffs worked and combined efforts to make the 1966 Treasure Chest a success.

Members were chosen after a careful and extensive screening of student applications, grades, and teacher recommendations. Early in the fall, the staff of five sophomores, six juniors, and thirteen seniors began work on the yearbook. The novice members quickly gained experience and learned by doing. Under the supervision of Miss Ann Jenkins, advisor, and Cindy Nottingham, editor-in-chief, the staff concentrated on new techniques and procedures.

Planning the yearbook began during the summer of 1965, when editor Cindy Nottingham and copy editor Jean Doenges attended a two-week Indiana University Journalism Institute. Later, during the school year, up-to-date styles, techniques, and ideas were employed in the publication of the yearbook.

service club volunteers benefit school

Answering telephone calls, delivering messages, making appointments, aiding ill students, and working in the "Lost and Found" department kept volunteers of the Service Club busy throughout the year. The members helped in the counseling department and the administrative and health offices.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Louise Grantham and Mrs. Betty Lightfoot, the members held teas throughout the year. In past years the Service Club has donated gifts to the county home, given clothing to welfare agencies, and packed baskets of food for needy families.

Business executives and commercial secretaries of the community, familiar with the needs of the demanding commercial world, spoke to the members and stressed the importance of their careers.

The organization strives to give the girls a sound background in business, to show members the expectations of secretarial work, and to familiarize them with the roles of clerical workers in successful establishments.

departmental assistants aid faculty in promoting interest in classes; ushers help at activities

Student aid in the library and in physical education and biology classes provided background for possible future leadership in these fields. Volunteer work in the courses earned credits for some assistants, and all had the opportunity of learning specialized material.

Twelve biology assistants gave their homeroom period to work under the supervision of Mr. James Jones and Mr. Ronald Cole. Caring for animals, keeping the laboratory in order, and demonstrating experiments before the classes busied the volunteers.

Physical education assistants received regular class credits for helping teachers conduct classes throughout the year. The objective of having assistants was to give the students interested in physical education as a career a chance to decide whether to continue in the profession.

pep club enlarges to 135 spirited members

Directing the MH pep block, sponsor Mrs. Barbara Adams and president, Becky Orebaugh, check the attendance at a home basketball game.

Promoting school spirit and backing the team are the major duties performed by the Pep Club. Displaying their spark and enthusiasm at pep sessions and ballgames, the club entertained basketball fans with spirited songs, clever chants, and unique hand motions.

This year the organization boosted its membership to 135 members. Under the guidance of Mrs. Barbara Adams, sponsor; Becky Orebaugh, president; Sharon Pursley, vice-president; Sharon Dozier, secretary; and Janet Spitzmesser, treasurer, the club chose bright red and black skirts and red blouses to add colorful variety to the group.

By making clever posters to be exhibited in main halls and lobbies, the Pep Club kept the students enthused with the spirit of basketball throughout the season.

'm' club piratemen promote athletic unity and spirit

Sponsored by athletic director Mr. Paul Bradford, the "M"-Club is made up of 65 varsity letter winners. The purpose of the club is to promote fellowship and to boost school spirit. At basketball games the members traditionally form a victory aisle to greet the team as it charges onto the hardwood.

In the spring, the "M"-Club sponsors a dance for members and their dates at which new members take the club oath and receive their letterman's pins. The club also elects officers at this event for the succeeding year. Serving this year were Phil Faris, president; Gary Haston, vice-president; Ron Simmons, treasurer; and Bill Carter, sergeant-at-arms.

Besides the sweaters which are awarded for each sport in which the boy obtains a varsity letter, a letterman's jacket is given to each member who majors in three different sports.

Varsity Cheerleaders—Carol Bush, Kathy Worster, Bobbie Jackson, Carol Wilson, Nancy Skinner, and Jane Gaylor, captain.

A squad of six capable girls willingly led Madison Heights in their spirited backing of the varsity teams. Sponsor Mrs. Louise Grantham spent many hours in practice with the varsity cheerleaders: captain Jane Gaylor, Nancy Skinner, Carole Bush, Carol Wilson, Kathy Worster, and Bobbi Jackson. Their goal was to boost school spirit and promote good sportsmanship so that the team and student body could proudly feel more united. Realizing the importance of their duties, the cheerleaders put forth real effort into perfecting old yells, originating and producing new yells, and organizing pep sessions.

The first reserve team cheerleaders in the history of the school, sophomores Gayla Caldwell, Nancy Oliver, and April Jenks bolstered spirit at the reserve team games. The freshman cheerleaders were Sharon Phillips, Marla Dietzen, and Cindy Tatum. Talented Pirate mascot, John Connell, stunned audiences with expert gymnastic stunts at basketball games. He led the team down victory aisle and represented the traditional wish of "good luck" from the Pirate fans to the teams.

wide, attains 1st rank in county; 3rd place at fair

Appearing in various holiday parades and other feature performances, the 1965-66 Madison Heights Band kept up a performance-packed schedule throughout the year. Under the able direction of Mr. Francis E. Barker and with the assistance of Mr. Rex Konz and Mr. Dwayne Brown, the band again proved to be one of the top bands in the state.

After months of intensive practice and a full week at band camp, this year's band presented its routine before an enthusiastic crowd at the Indiana State Fair Band Contest. Stepping high to the music of Lohengrin, the band ranked first in the county while it captured third place in the state.

Presenting outstanding pre-game, half time, and post-game shows, the 143 piece band added spirit to the football season. Executing flashy routines to the music of the concert band, the majorettes contributed variety to the basketball games.

Performing before parents and friends, the concert band presented a winter program of classical and pop music. Two weeks later, they competed in the band contest at Ball State University.

The concert band, dance band, and majorettes joined the concert choir to stage the annual Spring Festival. With the last strains of The Battle Hymn of the Republic an exciting year drew to a close.

heralds yuletide season in classic chorale

Heralding the holiday season with singing voices, 68 members of the MH Concert choir, began the roster of scheduled public appearances with the annual Thanksgiving convocation program. Under the direction of Mr. Andrew Brown, the choir joined with Anderson High School's Choral Club at the Community Sing held at the Wigwam. For the first year, a musical Christmas program was presented by the Concert Choir, Highlighters, Girls' and Boys' Chorus and Novelettes.

Further along in the year the singers presented a spring convo which consisted entirely of popular music. The choir participated in the district contest and the activities of Choir Day at Ball State University. They were featured in the MH Music Department annual Spring Festival.

Choir members participated in fund-raising activities to boost the musical treasury. The officers: Charles Newman, president; Mike Smith, vice-president; Barbara Gilmore, treasurer; and Connie Rinker, secretary; planned a car wash, a Christmas party, and a spring banquet for all choir members.

Three special groups selected from the choir are Highlighters, Novelettes, and Boys' Chorus. They perform for various clubs and organizations. The proceeds from said performances help to defer the costs of senior sweaters and tours.

'new moon' featured in 1965 spring festival

The performance of the Battle Hymn of the Republic climaxes the Music Festival.

Colorfully lighted trees and magenta-clad girls opened the Music Festival of 1965. The senior band presented varied numbers and with the concert choir produced highlights from "New Moon" by Sigmund Romberg. Terry Richardson emceed the show, announcing such numbers as Tim Haven's trumpet solo, Carnival of Venice. El Toro rang on stage as Danny Hudson added a bit of comedy to the show with a bullfighter's skit. Traditionally, the inspirational Battle Hymn of the Republic ended the program.

seniors celebrate close of high school years

"A fire engine! That hole can't need that much water!", echoed around the football field as the annual mud tug commenced. The senior girls displayed their brawn as the juniors slowly slid into the pit of muck. The junior fellows, taking flight, dived head first into the slightly dirty "old swimming hole."

Seniors flew in a frenzied whirl of activity as their four years of high school subsided. Much splashing and swimming occurred at the picnic and swimming party. Many sunburned faces appeared at the dinner-dance that evening. Seniors signed annuals and devoured pizzas in the cafeteria while the juniors rushed to finish the gym for their gift to the seniors, the prom. Thirty-eight travel-weary foreign exchange students stepped off bus #64 at Madison Heights July 13 to greet their anxious host families.

Having spent the last year with American families in New York and New Jersey, the students were touring the United States before returning to their own countries. Anderson was the fifth of their seven stops, Washington, D.C., being the last, where a national AFS rally for all foreign students was held. After the five-day stay in Washington, the students were flown to either New York City, Miami, or San Francisco, where they left for home.

Swimming at the home of Mr. William Frame, AFS co-sponsor, completed the first day of the students' Anderson visit. Delco Remy offered a tour of Plant 11 the next morning, followed by a luncheon at the YMCA sponsored by the Optimists Club. Mayor Frank Allis and two of the students spoke. That afternoon there was swimming at the Edgewood Country Club pool. A party and talent show at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Gemberling terminated the second day of activities. The students departed early the next morning, Thursday, July 15.

class of '66 dominates homecoming with winning

Juniors reflect the spirit of Pirate fans with the second place float and slogan, "Make 'Em Feel at Home!"

Huddling together in the fall's first freezing weather, Pirate fans flocked to the tenth annual football Homecoming. But the frigid autumn night did little to stifle spirits of the enthusiastic fans as the Pirates reigned victorious over Homecoming foes for the third consecutive year.

During half-time, five excited but tense girls were escorted onto the field. Smiles of approval could be seen as Miss Karen Frazee, senior candidate, was coronated by Phil Faris, captain of the football team. Attendants were junior Debbie Randall, sophomore Christi Barnes, freshman Janie Leader, and senior Kirsten Nielsen.

Enthusiastic spectators were amazed by the colorful and unique designs of the twenty-one floats in the annual Homecoming parade. The senior class copped first place honors with the theme, "Send Them to Hades, Maties!" The junior class received second place, and freshman homeroom 9-8 took third honors.

Sickness, Pills, and Doctors! . . . The Imaginary Invalid, a comical play written by Møliere, was produced by the Junior Class as their first play at Madison Heights.

The setting for the play was the seventeenth century home of the wealthy Argan. It was the story of Argan, the hypochondriac, who was sure he was dying, and of Toinette, the maid, who refused to let him die. Confusion resulted when Toinette interfered with Argan and his many doctors.

Laughter persisted as the Junior Class cast, under the direction of Mr. Bill Jennings, enacted the colorful comedy —the first play MH'ers had ever produced entirely in authentic costumes.

My Sister Eileen, written by Joseph A. Fields and Jerome Chodorv, was produced by the Senior Class as their last play at Madison Heights.

The story took place in a present day one-room basement studio in Greenwich Village. Two sisters, Ruth and Eileen Sherwood, left their home in Columbus, Ohio, and moved to New York to make a living on their own. Trouble began when beautiful Eileen met her first male admirer and the new Sherwood residence remained in an uproar throughout the play.

The three-act comedy, directed by Mr. Bill Jennings, brought laughter and high appraisal from the large audiences, and proved to be one of the best-received plays ever produced at Madison Heights.

Gheldig Jul! Merry Christmas!

"Christmas Around the World" served as the theme for the 1965 Senior Christmas Dance held December 11 in the MH cafeteria.

Approximately one hundred-sixty guests sat at tables which had been decorated with snow-covered, ornamented trees. Encircling the cafeteria were giant cards, each inscribed with Christmas greetings from another land. The center of attention was a huge, white-flocked, seven-foot tree.

Providing the entertainment, with both jerk and waltz pieces, were the Playboys. During intermission, couple pictures were taken in the gymnasium.

co-captains crown nancy skinner yearbook queen

Following an exciting evening of basketball, the "HasBeen-Will Be" game and the "Senior-Faculty" game, MH students were invited to stay for a soc-hop, sponsored by the yearbook staff, at which Miss Nancy Skinner was crowned "1966 Yearbook Queen." The queen and her court, Susie Stark, first runner-up, and Jane Gaylor, second runner-up were chosen from ten candidates.

Each of the ten candidates was escorted by a member of the varsity basketball team. Team co-captains, Don McShirley and Billy Carter, crowned Queen Nancy and presented her with the traditional bouquet of red roses.

The ten senior girls nominated by the members of the Treasure Chest staff to compete for the title of "1966 Yearbook Queen" were Diana Adams, Jane Gaylor, Barbara Hickner, Patti Pyzik, Ann Shafer, Nancy Skinner, Susie Stark, Peg Sterner, Sharon Swan, and Vicki Wilson.

Qualifications for candidacy were based on scholarship, leadership, and personality.

School spirits soared as MH students celebrated the tenth consecutive Scarlet and Black Week in the school's history.

Susie Starks and Steve Cronk, seniors; Elaine Edens and Gary Haston. juniors; Christy Barnes and Tim Forbes, sophomores; and Sharon Phillips and Frank Donaldson, freshmen; were chosen as candidates for Miss Scarlet and Mr. Black. Christy Barnes and Gary Haston were crowned at the mid-week convocation.

Adding a spirited air to the building, hall displays, built by school organizations and homerooms, depicted sectional slogans. Daily pep sessions boosted Pirate pride. The Jolly Roger staff sold car stickers with the slogan, "No Mercy Shed Where Pirates Tread", to MH boosters.

An hour-long pep rally on the day of the first MH game featured yells by varsity, reserve, and freshman cheerleaders, and skits by Caduceus and "M" Club. Prizes were awarded for the hall displays. Also included were the home room walking float contest, a song by the Treasure Chest staff, a talk by Coach Jack Wilson, and rhythmic music by the MH Band. For the first time a school spirit award was presented by the Jolly Roger staff. A group of teachers judged the winners to be the Junior Class.

connie rinker is crowned

Gentle music, tables softly lighted by nearby streetlamps, and a view of old Manhattan served as the romantic setting of the 1966 Prom, "An Evening in New York."

As the junior and senior couples strolled beneath the towering buildings of the city, the sweet scent of flowers, mingled with the beauty of the summer evening, added to the enchanting atmosphere of Central Park.

Dancing and enjoying refreshments, the couples hardly noticed the night slipping away. Anticipation increased as the hour of midnight drew close and the crowning of the Prom Queen neared.

Climaxing the evening, Junior Connie Rinker descended a winding stairway to be crowned Prom Queen by Junior Class President, Erich Ewald. Attending Queen Connie were Juniors Carole Bush and Elaine Edens.

Through months of careful planning and hours of patient work, the Junior Class made the 1966 Prom an unforgettable evening and a worthy gift to the departing seniors.

pirate cross country harriers cap 9 win-2 loss season by copping second consecutive sectional title

Cross Country enjoyed its most successful season in many years at Madison Heights as the 1965 Pirate Cross Country Squad raced to a 9 won and 2 lost record. After tripping Muncie South in the initial contest and losing to Kokomo 32-24 in the second meet, the team annexed four straight victories before being stopped by a fine Pendleton squad 30-25. The squad reeled off four more wins, including a 26-29 triumph over Anderson, winding up the season by outrunning Greenfield 25-31.

The team competed in three invitationals, finishing eleventh at Shortridge, fifth at Southport, and second at Fort Wayne. The Buc squad successfully defended its sectional championship by tying Anderson for the crown, scoring 68 points. They then finished eighth in the regional with a score of 176.

Madison Heights reserve team also posted a winning season. In six matches, the Buc reserves lost only to Muncie South and Pendleton by a total of four points.

faris, utley, morris earn honorable mention in

Pirate fans greeted the 1965 football season with great enthusiasm. The Buc lineup was studded with talent remaining from last year's undefeated squad, including Utley, Carter, and All State back Faris.

One week prior to the opening game with Shelbyville, the Pirate hopes took the first of many tumbles during the year; Bill Carter fractured his leg in practice. However, the first ball game found the Pirates victorious over Shelbyville by a 13-0 count, for the Bucs' fifteenth straight win in a three-season span.

A second fumble followed Carter's injury; the Pirates tasted defeat at the hands of Indianapolis Howe, by a score of 12-6. Had the Bucs beaten Howe, they would have possessed a sixteen game winning streak, the longest in the state.

The loss at the hands of Howe served to inspire the squad to greater effort. The Bucs victimized Highland by a score of 39-0, trampled Tipton in the Homecoming game, 31-12, and swept by Elwood, 21-3. The Elwood game was a Phyrric victory; however, as Phil Faris was taken out of the lineup for the remainder of the season with a painful knee injury.

The loss was only too evident in the following games of the season. The Bucs rolled over Anderson in every department except the scoreboard, where the Indians came out on top, 7-3. One week later, New Castle held the Pirates to a 13-13 tie. The Corsairs adjusted, however, and smashed Alexandria 34-0 on a rain-soaked field. After a 24-6 rout at the hands of fifth-ranked Fort Wayne South Side, the Pirates wrapped up the season with a 13-0 win over Noblesville, finishing with a 6-3-1 record. Although Faris only played in five games, he was second in county scoring. Bob Morris, Steve Utley, Jay Oster, and Phil Faris made the all-county team.

Team spirit and a lot of talent showed great promise for the Pirate reserve squad. Fans were not disappointed as the Bucs rolled to an undefeated season. Both cross-town rivals were soundly defeated during the Corsair's rampage. Fans remained on the edge of their seats during the entire Muncie Central game as the Bucs forced their opponents to within inches of the goal line. But time ran out, and the Pirates were left with their second tie of the year. The Pirate squad rallied to defeat their remaining opponents to end the season with a 8-0-2 record.

The freshman class backed their team all the way throughout the season. Their faith was not in vain as the frosh finished with a record of 4-3-1.

The Pirate matmen of the 1965-1966 season met rugged competition and finished with a record of four wins and eight losses. Coached by Mr. David Nicholson, the Pirate grapplers showed great spirit throughout the season and sectional.

The team was sparked by seniors Dennis Cooper, Gil Ganger, George Ledbetter, Bob Morris, Jay Oster, Gary Pence, Ed Peters, and Jack Williams. Bob Morris scored the most pins for the year by pinning ten of his fifteen opponents. Two juniors and four sophomores added the necessary depth for a strong team.

In the sectional competition Ledbetter, the high scorer of the season, won first in the 138 pound class. He was the first Corsair grappler to place in the regional as he carried the Pirate name to third place. Other Pirate wrestlers who placed in the sectional were Jack Williams, third in the 133 pound class, and Ed Peters, fourth in the 127 pound class.

The reserve squad won all but three of their matches, and the freshmen had only one defeat out of their six meets. With such talent from the underclassmen and the younger lettermen, the Pirates will be a team to watch next year.

pirates conclude basketball campaign with

A young and very inexperienced Madison Heights basketball team surprised many fans during the 1965-66 season with their fantastic shooting ability.

The Pirates started slowly, getting "upset" by Markleville in the first game, 66-58. Noblesville fell to the Bucs 66-53 in the second encounter of the season. Shelbyville, a team ranked in the top twenty all year, turned back the Corsairs 74-67 with the help of twenty-eight personal fouls whistled against the Bucs. Highland and Alexandria were the next two Pirate victims by scores of 63-59 and 80-57 respectively.

A determined Pirate squad succumbed to the Lebanon Tigers, ranked in the top fifteen teams all year. Everybody's All-American, Rick Mount, tallied 41 points for the Tiger cause. A five-game winning streak was then initiated by the Pirates by defeating North Central Conference power New Castle 72-70 and St. Mary's 74-43. The Holiday Tourney was all Madison Heights as the Bucs downed Noblesville 69-57 in the opener and Alexandria in the championship game 81-53. Elwood was number five in a row as the Pirates hung on for a 74-68 win. The "luck of the Irish" prevailed in the next game as the Pendleton Irish handed the Wilsonmen their fourth loss of the year. In the next two outings the Pirates defeated Fort Wayne South 62-61 in a real thriller, and Crawfordsville, 77-72. A three-game losing streak was suffered by losses to first-ranked Anderson, 75-66; North Central Conference Champion, Marion, 87-78; and North Central of Indianapolis, 66-60. The Bucs got back on the winning trail by defeating Lapel, 84-65. Frankton proved easy pickings for the Corsairs by being mauled, 111-64. This established a new school scoring record along with a new individual scoring record of 41 points by sophomore, Jack Rector. Eighth ranked, Muncie South dealt the Pirates their worst defeat of the season, 84-68.

In the sectional opener, MH raced to an 80-58 victory over St. Mary's. The Corsairs kept their sectional hopes alive as they annihilated cross-town rival Highland, 91-53. This victory put the Pirates in the final game for the first time in the school's history. After leading 39-38 at half-time, the Bucs got into foul trouble and lost the ball game 83-70. The Pirates finished the 65-66 season with 14 wins and 9 losses.

The 1965-66 reserve team, coached by Dick Howell, finished their season with 12 wins and 8 losses. This record included a second place finish in the Holiday Tourney.

Led by Coach Dale Lechlitner and Assistant Coach William Frame, the Pirates slashed their way to an undefeated season in fourteen duel meets, winning thirteen and tying one.

During the season, the Bucs defeated Warren Central, Wabash, and Southport twice. They also crushed Clarksville 106-48, slipped by defending state champ Concord 79.5—74.5, and mauled Crown Point 91-63. In addition, the squad reeled off wins over Elkhart, North Central, Portland, and Hoagland. Columbus was able to hold the team to a tie, 77-77.

In invitational tournaments, the Pirates finished second at Concord, and fourth at Warren Central, finishing the season with a 13-0-1 record.

At the Regional Tournament, the squad qualified eleven men for State competition in seventeen events, scoring 174 points and winning the regional for the first time in school history. The Pirates went on to capture fifth place in the State Tourney, with 62 points.

The team was made up almost entirely of underclassmen, as only two seniors, Rick Griner and Steve Riethmiller, competed regularly. Sophomore Bob Baker led the team in total points with 54 and was followed closely by Dick Wohlberg, a junior, who garnered 53 points.

The team practiced in the Anderson High School pool due to the absence of a pool in the MH gym. All home meets were also held in Anderson's pool.

utley hurls one-hitter, beating noblesville 1-0

Coach Paul Bradford's 1965 Madison Heights baseball team compiled a record of nine wins, ten losses, and one tie, for the first losing baseball season in school history.

The "65" season was one of great disappointment and frustration for the Pirates. The Bucs played some of the finest teams in the state, such as Marion, Frankfort, Shelbyville, New Castle, Anderson, Muncie Southside, and Richmond. At times, the diamondmen showed great pitching with no hitting. At other times, the team hit well, but its pitching was deficient. Throughout the season, there was a lack of timely hitting. The Corsairs' defense allowed 90 runs, while the offense could garner but 90 runs.

The Pirate summer season was far more successful. This team, consisting of all returning lettermen, competed in the ten-team Mid-Central Baseball League. The squad won eleven while losing two, nailing down second place. The Bucs then swept on to capture the playoffs, defeating Windfall, Elwood, and Sharpsville. Four of the league's top ten hitters wore the Pirate uniform.

The 1965 Pirate reserve team proved to be potent in compiling a 10 won — 3 lost record. This reserve talent plus eight returning varsity lettermen could constitute a winning combination for 1966.

madison heights golf squad claims first in sectional and finishes season by winning 12 of 14 meets

Cautiously reading the roll of the greens, Mike Roberts readies to putt.

Proving to be a year of victory for the Madison Heights golf team, 1965 saw one defeat, and one tie for the Pirate golfers. Using Edgewood Country Club as their home ground, the Bucs defeated twelve of fourteen opponents.

Senior Paul Moody, juniors Rick Brow, Neal Spannuth and Bobby Rose were aided by two freshman letterman, Bill Spannuth and Bobby Williams. The team made short work of highly ranked opponents, including Anderson, St. Mary's, North Central and Broadripple. The Pendleton squad matched points with the Bucs for a tie. Noblesville slipped by the Corsairs by a mere five and a half to two and a half score.

Making every putt count, the Corsairs went on to win the sectional with a score of 294. In the state competition, the team finished in ninth position, scoring 311.

The reserve squad ended their season with an unblemished record of 9 wins and no defeats. With the return of all but one varsity letterman, plus the fine reserve talent, Coach John Horvay anticipates another winning squad in 1966.

in sprinting to a 6 win-2 loss season

Racking up six wins against two defeats in dual meets, placing second in the Marion Relays, fourth in the North Central Relays, and second in the Noblesville Relays, the Pirate track team of 1965 continued traditional winning ways. The Pirates also won the New Castle Invitational for the third straight year and placed third in the sectional.

Charlie Huston became Madison Heights' first state champion in track competition when he won the state title in the shot put. Charlie's outstanding performance set the state record at 61′ 1½″.

Senior Bill Plummer and junior Ron Simmons also qualified in the sectional. Bill finished behind Charlie in the shot put while Ron's specialty was the 220-yard dash. Senior Don Weathers was top man in the distance events. Although he failed to qualify in the sectional, Don holds the present school records in the mile and 880-yard runs.

The Pirate mile relay team improved throughout the season and set a meet record at the Noblesville Relays. However, placing third, it failed to qualify in the sectional.

Having excellent balance in both the running and field events, the Pirate squad of 1965 provided plenty of competition for all their opponents.

seniors 'enter to learn . . . go forth to serve'

As seniors resolved to "enter to learn . . . go forth to serve", three hundred ninety-six members of Madison Heights' Class of 1966 worked during their four high school years to fulfill the legacy left them by nine preceding classes. Throughout their high school career, the class set standards that were imitated by Pirate underclassmen. They took pride in unity, wearing class colors of cranberry and white on Wednesday, Senior Day.

Anticipating achievement and glamor, a torrent of activities awaited the class in their junior year. The lure of the theater sparked the production of the junior class play, The Imaginary Invalid, with a cast of eight girls and eight boys. As spring came, active imaginations bloomed as the class gifted the graduating seniors of 1965 with a "Song of the Islands", the Junior Prom. Junior Jane Jacquess reigned over the tropical paradise.

A grueling battle in the mud tug proved senior strength superior to junior effort as a slimy pit of mire and muck swallowed the band of juniors unmercifully.

The senior year dawned and fulfilled the anxious expectations of the class. Fall football season prided the class as Karen Frazee was crowned 1965 Homecoming Queen, and the senior float, with the theme "Send 'Em to Hades, Maties!", took first place honors in the traditional competition.

Their last class play, My Sister Eileen sported a cast of 52 seniors and boosted the treasury. The colorful festivity of the Senior Christmas Dance, December 18, studded the holiday season with glamor. The Senior Yearbook Queen, Nancy Skinner, was crowned at the annual Treasure Chest soc hop, March 4, 1966.

Senior Week, the last remnant of high school life, came in a flurry of activities, as seniors enjoyed a picnic and swimming, a movie, a pizza party, a jet-age computer-planned dance, and a dinner dance. Baccalaureate and the final step, commencement, ended their part in a continually moving high school. As the formerly unified class diffused to become independent leaders of a demanding world, the Class of '66 fulfilled their legacy and prided their school.

Presenting a class play, participating in the junior-senior mud-tug, and planning the prom added excitement to the activities of this year's junior class.

Pine green and white class colors and a new style class jacket gave the junior boys distinction. Some of the girls purchased white class sweaters with MH emblems in the class colors.

Juniors separated into six courses to study the curriculum of their choice. Business education classes included 109 juniors; college preparatory, 143; general, 91; home economics, 8; technical, 13; and vocational, 23.

Four hundred and one juniors, 201 boys and 200 girls, took the Iowa Achievement Tests in November and a majority completed their college boards later in the year.

Nearly 50 juniors sold refreshments during basketball season to raise money for the junior treasury and projects.

The final tallying of monies received from concessions at a basketball game is the job delegated to junior Roger Salstrom by the class officers.

Embarking on their second year of high school, the sophomores gained official class ranking as officers and executive Council members were elected.

These elected representatives conducted the important class selections of rings. colors, and sweaters.

The spirit-boosting class, as a whole. participated in the Homecoming parade, gaining recognition with their third place float centered around the theme of "Rock 'Em Pirates."

The highly competent class of 1968 often copped the higher grades in the honor roll, contributing to the academic achievements of the entire school.

The second year of high school was a transitional one in which many changes were made. But most students, as years before, completed the year anxious to begin their third year at Madison Heights.

The fascinating realm of atomic energy unfolds before the student body through lecture and demonstrations by Mr. James Stuckey of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Freshman girls, such as Marla Dietzen and Sharon Phillips, consult Mrs. Grantham about their curriculum, modes of dress, personal problems, and possible future occupations.

Freshman students, Carolyn Guthrie and Pam Burke, spend their all-too short lunch hour contemplating the following period's test.

class of 1969 seeks, secures high school status

Anticipating the excitement and activities of the coming year, the freshman class strove to make their beginning in high school a meritorious one.

The class of 1969 was not an organized class which elected officers, but they did select four representatives-at-large to become a part of the Student Council. Finding the new subjects interesting and different, the freshmen began striving for the future years at Madison Heights. With zest and vitality, the freshmen rose to meet the challenges set before them. A period of trial and error rose before the students, enabling them to choose the best methods of studying and getting along in the high school world.

The twelve integral sections worked independently to construct homecoming floats and scarlet and black week displays. The class as a whole elected the homecoming queen candidate, Miss Scarlet candidate, and Mr. Black candidate. Attending basketball and football games, pep sessions, convocations, and soc-hops, the students of the freshman class entered into the activities of high school.

As the first trying year of high school came to a close, each student reappraised his accomplishments and pitfalls. With these appraisals in mind he organized within himself a guiding philosophy that could be applied to the three succeeding years.

Before a busy school day, Mary Beth Glazer and Suzie Jones obtain needed books then struggle to replace the lock.
